THE CUBAN QUESTION.

Two leading newspapers have polled the members of Congress on the question of the United States recognizing the belligerent rights of the Cuban insurgents. The majority of those in favor of friendly action towards the Cubans at the earliest time consistent with our obligations to a nation with whom we are at peace is so great as to give the practical effect of unanimity. In reality the only point of difference is the question of the circumstances which warrant action by the United States.

When the time comes for the determination of the conduct of this Government in the matter of Cuba's struggle, Secretary May may depend upon an overwhelming sentiment in favor of extending a helpful hand to Cuba. He may take it for granted that no matter what attitude he may assume, Congress will record the sympathy of Americans for the Cuban cause.

The matter of policy is the only doubtful element in the Cuban question. There is a wide scope of action under international law which requires the setting up of a form of government and a prospect of success as precedents to recognition of belligerency. A reasonable defense against the charge of unwarranted interference with Spain's affairs is all that is needed by our Government.

The Cubans are rapidly furnishing us with this defense. After many months of fighting with more soldiers than were ever landed on American shores by a foreign nation, Spain is unable to put down the insurrection and enforce her rule. On the contrary the revolution is growing in strength and the weight of success is on its side.

It is fair to presume, therefore, that the cause of independence has the support of the majority of the Cuban people and has both the right and the power of sovereignty. When it assumes an organized form the United States is justified in according it the rights of war.

To this recognition at the earliest opportunity the American people are impelled by their principles, traditions and sympathies.

OUR ANTI-TOXIN SUPPLY.

The efficacy of the anti-toxin secured by the Health Department from the Poor-house horse seems to have been fully proved. The tests with guinea pigs have been supplemented with a successful test in a case of diphtheritic croup.

Of the general efficacy of anti-toxin in treatment of diphtheria there can no longer be the slightest question. It is not an unfailing remedy, but it is efficacious in so great a percentage of cases that it must be classed among the most valuable discoveries of modern medical science.

The statistics of experiments with anti-toxin in the hospitals of this country, France and Germany show most gratifying results. Of 10,312 cases of diphtheria treated between Oct. 1, 1934, and April 1, 1935, 5,338 were treated with anti-toxin and the mortality was 10 per cent. Of 4,449 cases not treated with anti-toxin the mortality was 15 per cent.

In the cases of young children the reports are even more favorable, the mortality under anti-toxin treatment being reduced to 4 per cent.

Private physicians are without the means and facilities to provide themselves with anti-toxin and must look to public sanitary departments for supplies. The Health Department is serving its highest usefulness, therefore, in placing within reach of all at the least cost an unfailing supply of reliable serum.

It is to be hoped that Health Commissioner Starkoff will continue the commendable work of maintaining a supply of this antidote against dread diphtheria for this city.

DISAPPOINTED BRITISH INVESTORS.

The reported anguish of British investors in American breweries over the failure of their investments to meet dividend expectations will not be shared with profound regret by Americans.

There is certainly cause for this British disappointment. Since American brewery securities were placed in London with glowing reports of their dividend-paying capacity the actual dividends have been few and far between. There has been a heavy depreciation in the stocks, bonds and shares of the properties. A part of the disappointing results have been caused by the vigorous competition of American breweries and by labor troubles. Beer wars and strikes have cut deeply into the profits of the breweries. But the principal cause of the failure of dividend-paying capacity is the overcapitalization of the properties.

The English deal in American breweries was in large measure a speculation engineered by shrewd Americans who played upon the cupidity of the British investor. Breweries were bought up, consolidated and heavily overladen in the expectation of a great increase in earning capacity and a possible control of the market. If the plans had succeeded the American people would have been successful for money on watered stock to fill British pockets.

The failure of the investment, therefore, is the legitimate conclusion of an over-greedy speculation and as such, Americans who would have suffered from its success cannot be expected to weep with the investors. But more than this, Americans have cause for congratulation in the discouraging effect this experience will have on similar speculations in future.

The more American investments are kept in American hands and American enterprises are run by Americans, the better for the country. When the dividends of American enterprises are drawn by Americans the problem of how to maintain our stock of gold will be solved.

THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

To-morrow's Sunday Post-Dispatch will commend itself irresistibly to the great reading public.

It will contain the most striking and timely features of any newspaper published in the South or Southwest.

It will be the most thoroughly illustrated newspaper published outside of New York City.

Its news will cover current happenings of the world over, and will be presented in terse, graphic, readable form.

Its great Colored Supplement will be unusually good, challenging comparison with the leading 10-cent comic weeklies.

Here are some of its features briefly enumerated:

A Page for the Blue and Gray—The dedication of soldiers' monuments on the battlefield of Chickamauga, the meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic in Louisville, Ky., the opening of the Atlanta Exposition, have all served to revive anew memories of the stirring times of 1861-65. A copiously illustrated page will be given up to this feature of the moment in to-morrow's Sunday Post-Dispatch, and will contain the following stories:

Six of One and Half a Dozen of the Other—Story of twelve gallant veterans of the Blue and Gray now living in St. Louis, with striking portrait cuts showing them as they looked in war times thirty years ago and as they look now. Complete, well-told, most interesting.

How Mosby's Lieutenant Saved Boston Corbett's Life—The St. Louisian who was the central figure of this stirring tale of the campaign in Virginia tells of his interesting "fighting acquaintance" with the slayer of John Wilkes Booth. Illustrated.

An Army Officer Defends Gen. Miles—The proposed promotion of the brave Indian fighter to succeed retiring General Schofield, in the command of the United States army, has led to attacks upon his military record. This paper covers Miles' work as a soldier from the time when he left an Ohio clerkship for the army in 1861, through his war-time service and later Indian campaigns to the present time. Illustrated.

Other features will be:

Pleading for Her Love, He Killed His Wife—The tragic story of a New York farmer boy's infatuation for a beautiful circus actress whom he made his wife, and who proved faithless to him. The story has many strange and touching features and the case promises to become celebrated in criminal annals.

With Hallelujah Lassies Amid the St. Louis Opium Dens—A Sunday Post-Dispatch reporter accompanies an evangelizing squad of the Salvation Army in picturesque rounds of the city's Chicago "hop joints." Novel scenes and incidents strikingly described and illustrated.

He Wore the St. Helena Medal—Interesting facts concerning one of the great Napoleon's famous "Old Guard," whose grandson, a St. Louisian, now cherishes his grandfathers' decoration as a priceless heirloom. Illustrated.

The Motorcar Has Fun—A veracious account of certain humorous "trolley tricks" dear to the hearts of St. Louis motorists, including an eye-witness' description of the practical operation of the celebrated "Philadelphia Rush" and "Indianapolis Stagger" as applied to unpopular passengers. Illustrated.

A Group of Fall Brides—Five fair St. Louisians who will shortly be led to the hymeneal altar. If "all the world loves a lover" how much more tenderly must cherish the dainty objects of lovers' adoration! You can almost hear the mellow chime of wedding bells as you look at this picture.

The Great Bicycle Page—Bright, new, splendidly illustrated. A seven-column cartoon to-morrow will depict "politics on wheels," as it appears to a "million wheelman" looking forward to the L. A. W. State elections in October.

The Best Woman's Page—All the latest fall fashions pictured and described. Other interesting and timely matter. Dainty, delicate, dear to the heart of all femininity.

The Seven-Story Page—A treasury of novel and curious things, appropriately illustrated. The only feature of its kind in this country.

In a Strange Land—A charming fiction feuilleton, its love-story modestly and prettily told, with the happiest of endings, as everyone likes all love stories to end. Illustrated.

This last, but space will not permit further mention. To-morrow's Sunday Post-Dispatch will be a September beauty.

The address of the so-called Democratic Literary Bureau of Illinois, which was organized by the New York Evening Post into an address of the Democratic State Executive Committee. Of course this gross mistake may be due to the ignorance of the Evening Post, but it makes so many similar mistakes favoring the gold standard campaign that to attribute them to ignorance would be equivalent to branding the Evening Post as a grotesque ignoramus.

The Sogoneberg manufacturers are said to have robbed Uncle Samuel of $150,000. The shame of the thing is that these foreign manufacturers have succeeded in doing this under the forms of law, just like protected home manufacturers.

It seems as if a death rate of 2,000 a day in Pekin ought to tell, even on a Chinese population. There are some filthy American cities where the cholera might create a large death rate if it were to reach this country.

Compared with Chicago, St. Louis has been a Paradise during the September heat. The fact that Lake Michigan is worth a cent to the Chicagoans as a cooler except in winter, when it is a freer.

The connection of the house of Vanderbilt with the principal families of the British Empire will be of little benefit to any of them but the Marlboroughs and the Vanderbilts will not be benefited at all.

McKinley is working harder for a Presidential nomination than any of his rivals, and he needs to do so. The revival of business under a reduced tariff has knocked his main prop from under him.

The Chicago Republicans are thumpers as well as voters, but so long as they confine themselves to punching the heads of people within their party, no other organization has a right to complain.

The report that five members of Kentucky's good families have been slain in a poker game indicates that this pastime is by no means on the wane in the Bluegrass State.

The hair of the youngest of the Senators will be exceedingly white before Senator Gray makes the American people believe that any President should have a third term.

It is just as well that the Cleveland Administration is not helping Hardin. The people over in Kentucky are not enthusiastic when the Administration is mentioned.

Mrs. Kimpel would have done better to have bought bicycle stock than to have gone into the wagon business with Mr. Ziegenheim.

Should jury bribery be proven in the Duessert case, and punished, it may have a wholesome effect on the next jury.

Senator Vest is standing on the Pettie Springs platform, where every other Missourian should endeavor to be.

In the modest role of a voter Mr. Croker looks less like a man who doesn't care to say "where he got it."

Since Gov. Morton's great lack in the State convention, some of the newspapers speak kindly of his hair.

Uncle Filley naturally takes to schmeer-kase when Druggist Walbridge refuses to feed him on soda ice.

By the time the punsters are done ravine there will not be much left of the British yachtman.

The silver sentiment is very strong in Missouri, and Vest is not the man to pull himself down.

A good many Democrats in Kentucky are sorry their convention wasn't held after Missouri's.

Spain has to pay so much to her soldiers in Cuba that she cannot pay her civil servants.

The Chicago wheat pit is a bottomless one for bank tellers.

A Few Straws.

From the Springfield (Mo.) Leader-Democrat.

The election of seven out of the eight Councilmen in the city of Springfield for the Democrats and the success of their candidate for Sheriff, all during the present year, is a strong indication that the people of Greene County at least want no more of the 1934 landslide business.

Missouri at the next election is certain to give large Democratic majority and the party in this county should make a special effort to aid in that worthy cause.

The Democratic party in Missouri stands firmly for the free coinage of silver and for a low tariff. The people of Greene County and Missouri without regard to party favor this too, and recent events show that they may be relied on to vote that way in future in spite of the party lash.

It Should Be Repealed.

From the Columbus (Mo.) Herald.

We learn from the Post-Dispatch that "Missouri is about the only State in the Union which has a law protecting book-making and pool-selling." The next Legislature should repeal it.

The New and the Old.

From an Exchange.

I do not know, dear, if she looks like you—This recent woman, naively named "the new,"

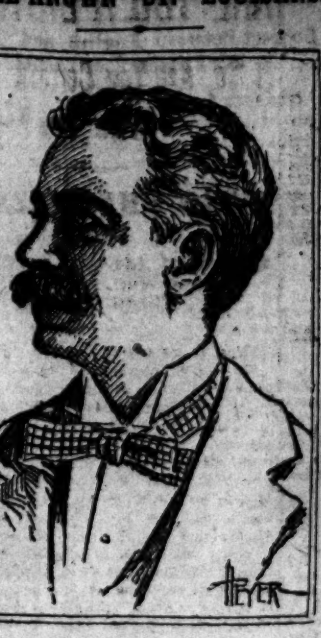

I only know
 The dear, sweet woman of the long ago;
 In weal and woe,
 I stray 'till seldom where the bloomers blow.

I do not know, dear, if her eyes are blue
 As April violets twinkling in the dew;
 I only know
 The dear, sweet eyes that make the morning glow.

I rarely ride, dear, where the bloomers blow,
 And love them so,
 I do not know, dear, if her love is true;
 Has it been tested? Like herself, I never
 I only know
 That old, old love, love makes the roses grow.

And so, and so—
 (May, dear, don't go)
 Love yet may lead me where the bloomers blow!

WELL-KNOWN ST. LOUISIANS.

J. E. Davenport.

J. E. Davenport was born in Salem, Ill. He was educated in the public schools. He went to railroad at the age of 15 with the old O. & M. Since then he has earned his money. Six years ago he came to St. Louis as local passenger and ticket agent for the Cotton Belt and later was made joint local passenger and ticket agent for both the Cotton Belt and Cotton Belt. He now has charge of the Clover Leaf's passenger territory. Mr. Davenport has a star reputation for gentility in a profession where good fellowship is an indispensable attribute.

MEN OF MARK.

Mr. Arthur Sullivan realized $50,000 by his song, "The Lost Chord."

None of Senator Quay's friends call him "Bert."

It is among Joseph Jefferson's theories of education for boys that they should be taught to fish and to tell the truth.

Fr. John Bannon, formerly known as the Fighting Chaplain of Galt's Missouri Confederate Battery, is now priest of St. Francis Xavier's Church, Dublin, Ireland.

William Penn Steedman, who was the man to capture Jefferson Davis when he fled to the South, is employed in one of the departments at Washington.

C. Rowland Hill, an Episcopalian missionary in Kansas, could own an English title of nobility, left him by a recently deceased father, but he prefers to be an American citizen.

The Italian Premier, Crispi, is an excellent Greek scholar. He speaks French and English with perfect facility. He is said to spend two hours a day in dressing, as he has a horror of getting to look old. He is a non-smoker and very moderate in the use of wine.

WOMEN OF NOTE.

Sarah Bernhardt has presented her two pet gorillas to the Jardin des Plantes of Paris.

England is enthusiastic over a new animal painter, Miss Maud Earl, who is expected to prove a second Rosa Bonheur.

Patti's prices are said to be higher now than at any previous time in her life, her present modest requirement being $4,000 for three songs. Times have changed since the first sung for Mr. Strakosch at $30 a month, though that was not bad pay, either, for the day.

Mrs. Theo Alice Ruggles Kitson, wife of H. H. Kitson, the well-known Boston sculptor, has completed with her own hands a number of statues, busts and bronzes, several of which have been exhibited in European salons with great credit. She has worked 25 years of age and first exhibited her works in the Paris Salon of 1888.

Mother Digby, an Irish woman, has just been elected in Paris mother superior of the Congregation of the Sacred Heart. She is a daughter of Kenelm Digby, who married the "Broad Stone" of Honor.

her brother, Kenelm Digby, who married Miss Grosbeck of Cincinnati, has represented Queen's County in Parliament.

ARRESTED FOR CONTEMPT.

An Internal Revenue Collector Who Refused to Produce His Books.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 21.—Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Henry Huttmann is in custody here on an order of Judge Reed, committing him for contempt of court in refusing to produce in court his Government books in disregard of department instructions. An alleged jointist is on trial for violating the prohibition law and prosecution sought to prove by means of the Internal Revenue officer's books that the man on trial held a Government liquor license.

Silver Men and National Convention.

State Treasurer Lon V. Stephens, in a contribution to the security of the silver movement, makes the following estimate of the relative strength of the gold and free silver forces at the National Convention of next year:

It is not at all unlikely that the silver will control the next Democratic National Convention. In this convention there will be 64 delegates. The situation to-day is about as follows:

For free coinage.

Alabama.....2 Nevada.....6
 Arkansas.....2 North Carolina.....6
 California.....2 North Dakota.....6
 Colorado.....2 Oregon.....6
 Florida.....2 South Carolina.....6
 Georgia.....2 South Dakota.....6

There is no doubt in my mind but that the following States will select delegates in favor of the single gold standard: Although Maine by some is considered doubtful:

Connecticut.....6
 Delaware.....6
 Florida.....6
 Georgia.....6
 Hawaii.....6
 Idaho.....6
 Illinois.....6

We can take from the States which are in the free coinage column the following, which by many are considered as doubtful:

Kentucky.....2 Washington.....2
 Louisiana.....2 West Virginia.....2
 Maine.....2
 Maryland.....2
 Massachusetts.....2
 Michigan.....2
 Minnesota.....2
 Mississippi.....2

 New Hampshire.....2
 New Jersey.....2
 New York.....2
 North Carolina.....2
 North Dakota.....2
 Ohio.....2
 Oklahoma.....2
 Oregon.....2
 Pennsylvania.....2
 Rhode Island.....2
 South Carolina.....2
 South Dakota.....2
 Tennessee.....2
 Texas.....2
 Utah.....2
 Vermont.....2
 Virginia.....2

This would leave the silver delegates with a majority still over all of 2 votes.

BY A ST. LOUISIAN.

The Aristocratic Portion of Paris is Claimed.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., Sept. 21.—A claim has been made to the title of Vandewater's addition on Quality Hill, the aristocratic portion of the city, by the first wife of the late Brewer Dinglemann, who ran a brewery there thirty years ago. The claimant resides in St. Louis. The purchasers will employ the best lawyers in the State to fight the claimant. Many costly residences have lately been erected on the ground.

SUB-MARINE BOATS.

An Invention Designed to Revolutionize Torpedo Work.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Commodore John A. Howell is putting his new improved sub-marine boat through a series of tests. The Howell sub-marine boat is designed by its inventor to revolutionize torpedo work in the navy.

The Government recently authorized the purchase of a number of these boats providing they could be made to show a certain degree of speed and efficiency. Secretary Herbert, on his recent tour of inspection, was particularly interested in the working of the boats and has ordered that the practice at Tiverton with a great deal of interest.

Commodore Howell is confident that his invention will meet every requirement. The Howell sub-marine boat is built on the principle of the Gyroscopic, and is so constructed that it can be handled with perfect ease at any distance under the water, and that it can be brought to the surface by means of the surface. The boats are equipped with electric motors and are designed to make rapid headway under the water. The movements against a hostile fleet are directed by means of a wireless appliance from the ship which sends it forth. These craft will be equipped with powerful explosives.

Naval men who have watched the progress of this and other destructive inventions say that the torpedo boats with which the service is equipped at the present time do not compare with the Howell machine, and they expect a revolution in the navy as a result of the preliminary practice that the navy will make general use of the boats.
